GRADUATING

SENIORS

Forty-eight graduating seniors will receive the degree of Doctor of Veterinary Medicine from the College of Veterinary Medicine on May 29, 1965.

Besides their D.V.M. degree, fourteen members of this class have also received a bachelor of science degree.

Thirty-six of the forty-eight seniors are married and have a total of forty children.

The average age is twenty-five and ranges from twenty-three to thirty-five.

There are ten members of the class who are veterans of military service.

Twenty-four of the graduating seniors will enter a mixed practice after graduation. Nine of the class will be engaged in a small animal practice and six in a large animal practice. There are seven seniors who plan to enter graduate school. One member of the graduating class will be entering military service and one member plans to enter medical school.
